If you're looking for a basic parental control tool to block access to a number of websites and don't want to waste time with complicated configuration options, have a look at Parental Filter. Especially designed to serve this purpose, Parental Filter has only a few minimal tools, which makes everything incredibly easy to use even for the very beginners. Easy to use despite appearances The interface is a mess and although you simply don't know where to start after launching the app for the first time, it takes just a few minutes to figure out how to use the program. Parental Filter has dedicated features to block access to the user-defined websites, with very simple editing tools to add or remove some of the entries in a second. Lock down desired applications You can thus see the so-called "allowlist" or the "banlist" straight from the main window, and adding a new website is as easy as typing its address. The configuration options are again basic and besides the fact that it lets you hide and show the application with the F keys on your keyboard, it also gives you the power to lock the program with a password and thus prevent other users from closing it. Clever management of system resources Parental Filter is supposed to run all the time, so it places an icon in the Windows System Tray, but that doesn't necessarily mean that it slows down the operating system. It doesn't and the app doesn't have any issue to run on Windows 8 as well, without even asking for administrator privileges. To end with As a conclusion, Parental Filter is indeed a handy tool, but a refreshed look and more customization options are a must have. All these considered, as well as it can run on the latest Windows versions, can still prove to be handy if you manage to get passed the interface. 8. However, Zot File Manager offers a fairly large number of features that are less common in the industry. Zot File Manager is simple and allows users to perform all the tasks they could ever ask for. Category 1 1) Did You Know Check if you have Flash installed. Does it have access to your microphone? How about your webcam? If it does, check if it is being used to watch live porn. The source code for Flash is available for free. So if the key logger is there, it's likely a bug. (Ever looked closely at the clear text popups that come up after you watch webcam porn on one of the "Plug-In" sites?) 2) Safe Kids Check the browser's type of security, the directory where it stores internet files and the search engine of each site to see whether your kids are being exposed to inappropriate content. In fact, we see that the Search Safety bar has a huge number of sites which are allegedly clean, but they actually don't make sure. Make sure you are signed into the Device Manager. Once you've installed the USB Guard v1.6, we'd suggest signing in.
